

The South Florida Water Management District (SFWMD) is a regional governmental agency that oversees the water resources in 16 counties – from Orlando to the Florida Keys.

With a population of 8.7 million, this region covers 17,930 square miles (31 percent of the entire state) and includes vast areas of agricultural lands, water conservation areas and urban development.

OUR MISSION

To SAFEGUARD and RESTORE South Florida's water resources and ecosystems, PROTECT our communities from flooding, and MEET the region's water needs while CONNECTING with the public and stakeholders.

Water Resources Accountability and Collaboration (WRAC) Public Forum Participants

The WRAC Public Forum is an open forum consisting of designated representatives from stakeholder groups such as participants of environmental groups, public interest groups, the business community, agriculture, water supply utilities and local governments. The forum will meet periodically to give a balanced representation of the diverse perspectives and viewpoints on water resource issues.

The forum will facilitate public discussion, participation and comment on critical water management issues and will serve to gather information, facts and viewpoints.
